RETURNS FROM WASHINGTON

Mr. Henry Bright, one of Danville's cleverest citizens, returned from Washington City last Monday and informs us that he will remain through the winter and immediately take up his duties with the Danville Tobacco Warehouse at that place.

TEATER-MCCULLEN.

On Tuesday Nov. 10th., at high noon,
at the residence of the bride's sister,
Mrs. Laura Nailor, Mrs. Mattie Ison
Teater was married to Mr. Josiah McCullen, of Buckeye Rev. R. M. Lee, pastor of the M. E. church South officiating. After an elaborate dinner at the hotel Kangarlan, the happy couple repaired to their home near Buckeye.

SHEEP KILLED

For the "steenth" time dogs have again invaded the fine herd of Southdown sheep belonging to R. L. Elkin, in this instance killing one and seriously injuring six others. The dog was killed while partaking of his midnight lunch of mutton chops and afterwards proved to be "Sport" the handsome collie belonging to Capt. T. A. Elkin. Peace to his ashes.

INTERESTING NEWS FOR TOBACCO GROWERS.

It will be of great interest to every tobacco grower to know that England and France, who have control of the seas, have assured Uncle Sam that the shipment of tobacco abroad will be permitted, on neutral vessels. This will give a great boost to the demand for tobacco abroad and will probably cause the price to be much better than anticipated.

LOCAL STOCK PENS CLOSED.
By Order Of Commissioner Newman.

Court Judge C. A. Arnold received official notice from Commissioner Of Agriculture, J. W. Newman, last Tuesday ordering the stock pens at this place closed until further notice. This is done on account of the Foot and Mouth disease that is so prevalent over the entire country just at this time.
While there is no trace of the dreaded disease in this section, it is done as a precautionary measure. Mr. John Ross is the owner of the local pens here and he will at once have them thoroughly cleaned and fumigated.

As a result of the order there will be no cattle on the market next Monday.

OFFICE FORCE TO ENJOY THANKSGIVING.

In order to give our office force a Thanksgiving holiday we will go to press next Wednesday. We ask all of our correspondents to have their letters in by Monday. Our office force has a great deal to be thankful for and we will give them a day off in which to return thanks.

WE REALIZE THE INCONVENIENCE.

Few people realize the convenience of the electric railway which has been in operation several months between Lexington and Versailles. Danville people can make connection for Frankfort at the Lexington depot almost every hour.

In other words Danville is now in direct communication with Frankfort regardless of which train is taken out of Danville. It used to be that travelers had to make a long transfer in Lexington and wait an hour or so for connections.
The interurban cars leave Lexington almost hourly.—Advocate.

KIND WORDS FOR

JUDGE HARDIN.

Elsewhere in this issue of The Messenger will be found the card of Judge Charles A. Hardin in which he makes formal announcement as a candidate for Circuit Judge. In the card Judge
Hardin gives the facts as to the time he has served. He was elected for a short term, to fill vacancy caused by death of Judge Saufley. Judge Hardin has made a faithful, conscientious official and his work on the bench has been highly complimented. He has lost no time from his duties as Judge and the fact that the work in all his courts is well cleared from the dockets speaks for his energy and determination to keep the dockets free from congestion.—Danville Messenger.

DR PEARCE SPEAKS

IN LAWRENCEBURG.

The Anderson News has the following to say of our former popular Methodist Minister:

"By special invitation Dr. Pearce, pastor of the Methodist church and also recently of the National Committee of the Federation of American Churches, addressed the meeting. Dr. Pearce heartily congratulated the League on its faithful endeavor; also to resolutely agitate the Hospital movement against any apathy tokened until the Hospital was provided. Reference was made to the Heath League of Boyle county and Danville as the home town of the speaker. The hospital as there provided, whilst yet limited, was constantly commending itself as one of the very best institutions for the public welfare, that Danville and Boyle county had ever known."

APPROACHING WINTER

FEEL IN WAR ZONE.

The effect of the approaching winter
on the campaign already is evident.
Heavy frosts are reported in East Prussia and the campaign in Poland has been waged for some time under most disagreeable conditions caused by rain and snow storms.

A letter received in Bremerhaven
from the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, speaks of the frightful weather prevailing at the front. The trenches are filled with water and the men of his regiment, who for 14 days were on duty at the front, stood day and night in water breast high. The enemy's searchlights played constantly on the German positions and it was impossible for one to show his head above the embankment, even at night, without drawing fire. The young prince, who is British by birth, commands the Sixth Thuringian infantry in the army of his adopted country.

CLEAN BOURBON PENS.

The work of cleaning up and disinfecting the bourbon Stockyards at Louisville began, when a force of more than 100 men got busy with brooms, shovels and other implements, aided by powerful streams of water. Most attention was devoted to scrubbing out
the hog pens and scraping walls, chutes and runways. It is estimated that the washing and clearing of pens and inclosures will be finished in about one week, whereupon the inspectors will begin disinfecting with chemicals.

In the opinion of Dr. Bond it will be at least two weeks, perhaps longer, before any business can be transacted at the stockyards. Under no circumstances he said, will the ban be lifted from the yards until they have been thoroly cleaned and disinfected and the danger of a spread of the disease is passed.

The task of cleaning up Louisville and the State is a huge one for the Federal authorities, who have been compelled to call upon the Department
at Washington, for additional help.

CLEAN RECORD
FOR POSTMASTER BROWN.

The government inspected the postoffice at this place found Postmaster Brown onto his job and handed him a clean record and said that it was one of the best he had yet checked up.
This is quite a compliment to the general official and his friends are proud of his record. The "gag rule" recently issued by the Postmaster General, forbidding postmasters from calling upon other postmasters for instructions,
does not apply to Postmaster Brown.

JUDGE PURYEAR
CANDIDATE FOR

RE-ELECTION.

The present Commonwealth's Attorney,
Hon. Emmett Puryear announces
this week that he will be in the August primary 1915 for the nomination to succeed himself in the office he now holds. The two years that he has been commonwealth's attorney he has made many friends. Judge Puryear has done his best to keep the standard of that high and important office up to the level fixed by his predecessor and by so doing has maintained good order throughout his district. It is conceded by every body that Judge Puryear has made an excellent officer and since he is serving out an unexpired term his friends think that he should be renominated.

STANLEY WILL RUN

FOR GOVERNOR.

It is reported in the daily press that Hon. A. O. Stanley will announce his candidacy for the nomination for Governor in a few days. This will be gratifying news to hundreds of democrats in this part of the state, not only among those who supported the brilliant Second District Congressman in his recent Senatorial candidacy but many of those democrats who supported both Beckham or McCreary learned to admire him and now want an opportunity to do something for this loyal democrat. He added hundreds of friends to his already large list by his active support of Beckham and the ticket
after he was defeated at the primary.

From the many favorable expressions heard here upon his probable candidacy
we feel sure that he will be the favorite among all the probable candidates in this section of the state.

A MODEL EX-PRESIDENT.

Never in the history of the country has there been a man, who, after retiring from the Presidency, has been to a more flattering extent persona grata to his fellow citizens than ex-President William Howard Taft, who is now delivering a course of lectures before the students of the Yale Law School.
The invitations to lecture that he has received come from all over the country and in such numbers that he can accept only a comparatively few of them. He could fill matinee and evening engagements for the entire seasons and even then have more engagements than he could possibly fulfill. The desire to hear him is particularly noticeable among the colleges and the professional schools of the universities, and not a few of them
envy the privileges of the Yale Law School, with which he is regularly connected.

HARD ON SOME AND

GOOD ON OTHERS.

The low collar and low cut neck of the daytime frock have been comfortable as far as physical sensation goes,
but they have been hard on the spirits of the woman who did not look well in them, and what is physical comfort compared with wounded vanity?

The change has come gradually. The woman who launched the daytime decolletage began first by rolling their collars up against their necks in the back and on the sides, thereby in many cases conferring a boon upon the general public, for if there is anything less sightly than the front of a scrawny neck we never saw it.

Fashion's mandate has accomplished
what neither cold weather or doctors bills could do. The low cut neck of the daytime is passing and passing rapidly.
Let us be thankful for it was seldom becoming, often exaggerated to the point of immodesty, always in bad taste for the street. Yes, let it pass.

WHY IS LANCASTER FIRM? Because Its Citizens Have Learned The Truth.

After reading this generous and encouraging report from Mr. Austin those who have the misfortune to suffer, as he did, will naturally long to get similar relief. But to get the same good as Mr. Austin had, you should get the same remedy. There are of course, other kidney pills but there are no other kidney pills the same as Doan's. That is why Lancaster people demand the genuine.

I. D. Austin, blacksmith, Stanford pike, Lancaster, Ky., says: "I had weak kidneys and the kidney secretions were irregular in passage. My back pained me. Doan's Kidney Pills strengthened me in every way."

The above statement must carry conviction to the mind of every reader. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Austin had—the remedy backed by home testimony, 500 all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Props. Buffalo, N. Y.

They do not object to taking it," writes Mrs. Lafayette Tuck, Homer City, Pa.

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR STOMACH
If it's Upset Mi-o-na Puts It Right and Ends Distress.

If you are one of the thousands who cannot eat a simple meal without its lying in the stomach like lead, fermenting and causing painful distress, sourness and gas, do not delay but get at once some Mi-o-na—a simply prescription to be had at any druggist—that quickly and effectively ends indigestion and corrects bad stomachs.

You must not allow your upset stomach to go from bad to worse for there will surely be longer periods of food fermentation causing greater agony, more gas, sick headache, unrefreshing sleep, "blue spells," and nervousness.

A few Mi-o-na tablets are just what you need. Use them freely at the first sign of distress. Mi-o-na not only quickly ends the misery, but helps to unclog the liver and strengthen the stomach—then your food is properly digested.

Mi-o-na is not only inexpensive but R. E. McRoberts sells it with agreement to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

Dependacy Due to Indigestion.

It is not at all surprising that persons who have indigestion become discouraged and despondent. Here are a few words of hope and cheer for them by Mrs. Blanche Bowers, Indiana, Pa.

"For years my digestion was so poor that I could only eat the lightest foods. I tried every thing that I heard of to get relief, but not until about a year ago when I saw Chamberlain's advertisement and got a bottle of them, did I find the right treatment. I soon began to improve, and since taking a few bottles of them my digestion is fine."

The Womans Club

(Edited By The Womans Club)

There seems to be little fun nowadys that is not flavored with philanthropy. Lancaster has never been behind in any worthy cause, so let us fall in line and do something, even if it is no more than to be "mirthful for sweet mercy's sake".

The meeting of the club grows in interest and enthusiasm.

Mrs. Frank Marksbury, conducted a delightful meeting last Thursday. Miss Helen Gill has for her subject, this afternoon, Michael Angel as painter, sculptor and architect. His noted picture, "the Last Judgment" and wonderful pieces of statuary, "David", will be discussed.

Daisy Fitzhugh Ayres, in Sunday Courier, has this to say in regard to it: "Knitting bees for kind charity are a fashionable philanthropy, with the European sufferers in view.

Mrs. Paul Bartleet, for instance, a pretty woman with a pretty home, a sculptor's wife, has been giving cozy tea parties several afternoons each week, at which each woman present is supplied with a ball of yarn, a pair of knitting needles and personal instruction in the ancient craft, if needed. Everybody plunges into the construction of nice, woolly scarfs for the soldiers, of uniform material and size required by the army regulation of the nation to which they are to be sent.

Often the work of many kind hands will go into a single scarf, while the accomplished knitters achieve a garment alone in two or three sittings.

One of the most interesting pages of the October number of Vogue is devoted to a story about the "moneyless week" for Americans in London and to the work of the London women during the extremities of war.

The headlines says that "England's Extremity Is Woman's Opportunity," that "London is at last in the hands of the feminists, moneyless and manless, and there are a million pairs of socks to knit."

Following is part of the story about society being on a new track:

"Instead of society being off shooting, yachting and flirting it has turned over its country house, its town house, its yacht, and its everything—that-is-its to the Red Cross or the navy. The Englishmen have vanished and the women are sewing or knitting or otherwise occupying themselves on behalf of the charming, clean-cut young chaps who every day leave for the front.

The ball room at Clarendon's has been converted into a colossal sewing circle; the army has asked for a million pairs of socks. "It's a bit of an order, isn't it?" a pensive little countess remarked to an American girl with beautiful Irish eyes and a Paris hat. The American girl was counting stitches: "Some socks," she murmured absently."

The following letter was read at the last meeting of the Womans Club, and the women have it under consideration.

"Moved with deep compassion for the suffering of afflicted Belgians in the devastations of the present War, and more particularly with pity for the little children who have been made fatherless and the aged men and women who have been made homeless, the women of Anchorage Kentucky have organized an Association to afford them some measure of relief. The suggestion was made, and acted upon with enthusiasm; that the Christmas spirit could this year be shown by foregoing the exchange of presents among themselves and friends and taking the money so used ordinarily in this way for the purchase of food and clothing for these destitute people.

In Anchorage a very simple organization has been effected; consisting of a President, Secretary and Treasurer and a Committee of publicity. The purpose of the organization will be made known throughout the community—everybody being invited to waive the giving of Christmas present, except to children and dependents, and thus contribute to the relief of the Belgians, whose needs are so pressing and so pitiful. Among the individuals a simple card will be sent, saying "My Christmas gift to you will this year go to the suffering children and the aged Belgians. Will you not also join me in giving Christmas cheer where it is so needed?"

The idea is so simple and so pitiful. Among the individuals a simple card will be sent, saying "My Christmas gift to you will this year go to the suffering children and the aged Belgians. Will you not also join me in giving Christmas cheer where it is so needed?"

A HAPPY MEETING

By EVERETT P. CLARKE

The case of the people against Jacob Severance, or Edward Todd, or a number of other names which might be applied to the prisoner, was called. The prosecuting attorney expected to prove that he was the notorious Jake Severance who had committed any number of confidence games and was the slickest operator in that line in America. The trial was to come off in the county seat, where he had been captured working as a farmhand to escape those who were after him. It was at the height of the haying season, and the farmers were all endeavoring to get in their crops before the next rain. Consequently there was difficulty in making up a jury, for whenever a man had a valid excuse for not serving he availed himself of it. Finally the panel stuck at the twelfth juror.

A farmer entered the courtroom and looked about him with that wild glance common among countrymen who find themselves in an unfamiliar position. "Is this here a real estate office?" he asked.

"No, it's a courtroom," replied the sheriff.

"Oh! I thought it was real estate office. I want to buy a farm."

"No, I come from Canada. I got tired livin' under the British flag, and I want to git property here."

"I say, my friend, how would you like to help us out as a juror? You will get a dollar a day for sitting still and doing nothing."

"I don't know nothin' about juries; I never sat on one."

The farmer was persuaded, and the jury was complete. When the prisoner was brought forth for trial he cast a sweeping glance over the twelve jurors.

The man from Canada seemed uneasy in finding himself in a jury box and kept looking about him here and there as if he feared something awful was about to be sprung upon him.

"Jacob Severance, you are accused or?"

"I ain't Jacob Severance. I'm Tom Barker."

The farmer jurymen at this was seen to start.

"Where do you hail from?"

"Ontario, Canada."

The farmer arose from his seat, looked fixedly at the prisoner and said:

"Is you the Tom Barker that run away with my daughter?"

"I run away with a gal named Barker, but I never seen her dad."

"Mathildy Barker?"

"Yes, my wife's name's Mathildy."

"What's your daughter?" asked the old man pathetically.

"She's to hum with the kids, while I am tryin' to make enough as farmland to keep em' alive."

"Tell me whar I kin find her. I done her big wrong when I told her she shouldn't marry a man I had never seen. Her mother has been most heartbroken since she went away and plain for her all the time."

The court business stood still while this dialogue was in progress. When it had come to this point the prosecuting attorney said:

"Your honor, I have no objection to this man taking the witness stand to clear up what has evidently been a mistake. But since he is a juror he must be excused as such."

A new jurymen was found, and the stranger took the witness stand. He told a pathetic story of how his only daughter, who was a schoolteacher across the international line, had written that she was going to marry one Tom Barker, a young farmer who was trying to pay for a farm he had bought mostly on credit. Her father objected to the match on the ground of poverty and tried to stop her by telling her that if she persisted in the matter she would never again be welcomed home. From that day he had never seen or heard from her. Then he broke down and wept.

Handkerchiefs appeared all over the courtroom.

"Your honor," said the lawyer who had the prisoner's case in charge, "this is evidently a case of mistaken identity. The man the police is looking for is a very different person from the prisoner. I move that the case be dismissed."

The judge, who noticed that the sympathies of all were with the poor farmer and his son-in-law, consented, and the case was taken off the docket. Then the farmer went up to his son-in-law, put out his hand and told him how sorry he was that he had taken such harsh measures with his daughter. "But," he added, "I've sold the farm for a good price, and I've come down here to buy another. We'll settle among these good people, work the farm together, and when I'm gone Mathildy shall have it. Meanwhile there's plenty for all of us."

Half a dozen persons gathered around the speaker, all having farms they would sell—just to have him settle among them—but he said the first thing he would do was to go to his daughter. Then he would come back and look at the properties for sale. He left with his son-in-law, and neither of them returned. The son-in-law was the crook the police were after, and the father-in-law was another, the two having long worked their games together.

Remarkable Cure of Croup.

"Last winter when my little boy had croup I got him a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I honestly believe it saved his life," writes Mrs. J. B. Cook, Indiana, Pa. JOINTS STIFF FROM RHEUMATISM--HOT SPRINGS FAILED TO CURE--ANDES MEDICINE DID THE WORK.

Montgomery, Ala., June 10, 1913. Hot Springs, Ark., has a world-wide reputation as the mecca for the cure of all forms of rheumatism. Invalids are carried there on stretchers, in rolling chairs. Every train brings some who are drawn and joints have become stiff and they come to bathe in the health-giving waters, with hopes of being restored to their normal health again. People of all walks of life are to be found here, all seeking that coveted goal, Health, the mainspring of all good and great things.

The man from Canada seemed uneasy in finding himself in a jury box and kept looking about him here and there as if he feared something awful was about to be sprung upon him.

The man from Canada seemed uneasy in finding himself in a jury box and kept looking about him here and there as if he feared something awful was about to be sprung upon him.

However, these health-giving waters, with their wonderful fame as to their curative powers, sometimes fail to give the sufferers any relief whatever. This is proven from this statement of Mr. J. D. Bessershire living corner Mildred and Mobile streets, who has been a sufferer from rheumatism of the past twelve years. His ankles were perfectly stiff and he dragged his feet along, and the pains during the damp, cloudy weather were intense.

He visited Hot Springs with hopes of finding relief from this trouble but it failed to give back the use of the ankles. Mr. Bessershire called at The Andes salesroom yesterday to make a purchase of more of the Great Medicine. He said: "Your remedies have done me more good than my trip to Hot Springs. Look how I can bend my ankles. It is the best use I have had of them in twelve years, and I expect to continue to use the Medicines as I believe will be entirely cured. Rheumatism is caused from kidney trouble. Andes Great Prescription acts on the kidneys, removes all uric acid from the blood and cures permanently. The Great Oil is used externally. If the directions are followed, these two wonderful medicines will cure any case of rheumatism. Andes Prescription has done more real good for sufferers from catarrh, indigestion, stomach, liver, kidney, bladder diseases, blood troubles, weak nervous, all run-down system and tired, all-gone feelings, than any medicine ever sold in Alabama. Price, Andes Great Prescription, $1.00 per bottle; 3 for $2.50; 6 for $5.00.

Andes' Oil, the modern wonder for restoring the hearing, for stiff and drawn joints, rheumatism of any kind, sprains, strains, weak back, lumbago, fact pains or aches in any parts of the body, will yield in three minutes to this wonderful external oil. Price 50 cents: 3 for $1.25.

These medicines are now on sale in Lancaster at R. E. McRoberts.

Announcements.

We are authorized to announce Judge Charles A. Hardin, of Harrodsburg, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Circuit Judge of this, the thirteenth judicial district, at the August primary 1915.

We are authorized to announce C. C. Fox, of Danville, Kentucky, as a candidate at the primary election in August, 1915, for nomination by the Democratic party as Judge of this, the Thirteenth Judicial District, of Kentucky, to be voted for at the November election, 1915.

We are authorized to announce Emmet Puryear of Danville, Ky., a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Commonwealth's Attorney of this, the thirteenth judicial district, at the August primary 1915.

Have we ever had a more safe or a more sane President than Mr. Wilson. Mr. Wilson was elected a minority president. But for the war in the Republican party he would not have chosen.

The country regarded him as a quiet scholar, he was known to be eminently respectable and would be safe and would not be led astray.

When Mr. Bryan was chosen secretary of State it was pretty well agreed that he would be the real President, that he would guide the destinies of the nation, would be the moving spirit, while the theologian from Princeton would be a figure head.

This has proved that Mr. Wilson has been a man of his own head, that he has known business, politics or the science of government, not in a theoretical, academic way but in a practical way and in a way pleasing to the masses.

The grave and reverend senate, the men who have been the real force in administration for twenty and thirty years, have been, to their unutterable astonishment, put in the background.

Congress has been made to eat out of the hand of this "schoolmaster" who has shown himself to be a most forceful, dominating and splendid executive. There has been no bluster, no bragadocio, no "big sticks" to bring about results.

Just the action of a sternly determined man who made a study of the financial and commercial requirements of the people, who respected the rights of "vested interests", who heeded no unfair demands, and believing he was right in his aims and purposes, proposed to go, and did go ahead fearlessly. The country has come to regard Woodrow Wilson a great man, a man who has shown great wisdom in his treatment of grave questions. He has handled the Mexican and foreign war situations with masterly adroitness, in fact he is making our country admired, honored and respected, abroad as well as at home.

The editor was made president of the Farmers Institute for the next year, a high compliment which we greatly appreciate.

The state of Kentucky is expending thousands of dollars in the employment of qualified and experienced lecturers and teachers to go from one county to another throughout the entire state to tell and show the farmers how they may increase the yield in their farm products and add to the profits of the farm. We have noticed that those farmers who have been attending these institutes in this county and have adopted the progressive methods recommended are outstripping the indifferent fogie who are still following the old way that his ancestors taught. We will have done much for our county, if by the co-operation of the people we can induce the farmers to hear the addresses of those sent out to our county next year. When you pay your taxes remember that you are footling the bill for a farmers institute next year in Lancaster. When we call your attention to it one year hence, don't fail to attend and get the benefit of the money you have invested.

THE FOOT AND

MOUTH DISEASE.

There is not a disease known that is more highly communicable from one subject to another than this one. The disease is transmitted by direct contact, and through the medium of infected food, litter, watering places, stables, cars and attendants. It is possible that the contagion may be carried short distances in the air.

The period of incubation, or the time that elapses between exposure and signs of the development of the disease, usually is short, but may vary from twenty-four hours to twenty days. Most cases develop within two or three days after exposure.

Foot-and-mouth disease usually starts with a chill. The animal remains by itself, the back is arched, hair erect, flanks tucked up, and there is shivering or twitching of the muscles. A sick animal moves with reluctance, and there is stiffness or marked lameness in the gait. A thick, yellowish secretion collects at the inner corners of the eyes and about the edges of the nostrils.

More active symptoms of the disease may be noticed by blisters which form in the mouth, about the feet and on the udder. The blisters vary in size from that of a pea to a quarter of a dollar, and are filled with a watery fluid. There is a profuse slavering of the mouth, the saliva at first is normal but later becomes thick andropy.

This disease is not ordinarily fatal, but causes very serious loss in the checked milk flow, and prolonged, unthrifly condition, and seriously diseased feet. The mouth is so sore that the animal is unable to partake of solid food and apparently loses all sense of taste, and is generally of no value thereafter. One attack of the disease does not confer immunity, as an animal may have it several times.

Destruction of affected animals and thorough disinfection, these are the only methods that have ever been effective in dealing with this disease. Keep a watchful eye for this disease and work to prevent an outbreak in your section. Only the most drastic measure, of immediate slaughter, gives any hope of eliminating the disease, even rigid quarantining but partially checking its spread, since the germs may be carried by animals and even pigeons to a distance of scores or hundreds of miles.

The foot-and-mouth disease is practically unknown to American stock raisers, therefore it has not been generally recognized, which accounts for the foothold it has gained; nevertheless the foaming at the mouth and the ulcers appearing on the udders and feet of the animals attacked are unmistakable signs to those aware of the presence of the disease in the United States, and the Secretary of Agriculture urged the immediate report to him of any suspected animals or herds. Indeed, prompt action in such cases, even if involving a pecuniary loss to the farmer or the shipper rises to the height of patriotism, since the general spread of the disease would be a tremendous national calamity.

The editor was made president of the Farmers Institute for the next year, a high compliment which we greatly appreciate.

BOLD BAD ROBBERS.

Three residences on Danville street were broken into last Saturday night, sometime between midnight and day. Messrs W. O. Goodloe, George Smith Sr. and R. E. McRoberts were the unfortunate victims. Only a few dollars were secured from each place, money seemed to be his sole object, nothing else in any of the houses being disturbed. Several residences on this street were broken into about a month ago.

"WHISTLER" RETURNS.

After a siege of more than two weeks in a Cincinnati hospital, Mr. George Smith Jr. returned to his home last Tuesday. Mr. Smith went there suffering intensely with his eyes, but a successful operation upon one of the lids by Dr. Sattler, the noted eye specialist of that city, he returns, we are glad to state, very much improved and his friends hope will soon be himself again.

KING ALBERT OF BELGIUM

Will Live In History As Great Figure Of The War.

King Albert is the most popular officer in the army. The soldiers in the trenches say so, and they are not given to flattery just now.

Nor is it blind devotion to a mysterious "his majesty" about whom the common people know little. King Albert is loved because he is known rather than because he isn't.

The soldiers are unanimous that the King is most democratic. He does not wait for his men to come to him. He goes to them.

He tries to understand them; he goes everywhere, unaccompanied, dresses in one of the plainest of uniforms and addresses his soldiers as comrades rather than subjects.

A war correspondent had this to say of him:

"In a little village just across the border here I saw today walking thru the drizzle the man who will probably come out of this war with the most lasting reputation of any engaged in it—King Albert of Belgium."

Fresh from the trenches, where he had scored death and patted his fighting soldiers on the shoulder, with the cheers of his enthusiastic men in his ears, his long rather English face wore the expression of one who had suffered a great deal, and who was ennobled by his suffering.

I have seen many pictures of Christ on the cross, some done by masters, and in each I have seen about the eyes something of pity, much suffering—but nothing mean. One reads determination, proud resentment, an absence of fear."

FARMERS INSTITUTE HELD FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Not Attended As It Should Have Been.

Of all the various agencies at work for the advancement of Agriculture in Ky., the work of Farmers Institute should be the most important. After attending one of these meetings and hearing these talks on various subjects, the progressive farmer returns to his farm greatly benefit by what he heard and has a new enthusiasm for his work and sees many possibilities which he had never seen before. Then why, oh why, are our farmers so remiss in attending and so uninterested.

M. Douglas, representing Live Stock Department and Live Stock Farming, says:

The cheap feeds which admirably suit the production of Live Stock, that can be furnished on Kentucky farms, at a very little expense, are alfalfa and corn silage. Corn silage can be produced at a cost of about $4.00 a ton and admirably takes the place of hay costing $20.00 per ton. A field of corn making fifty bushels per acre, would average about ten tons of corn silage per acre. A silo holding a hundred tons of silage would furnish the rough feed for thirty-five head of cattle for six months. Not only is it cheaper feed, but it is one that admirably suits for both winter and summer feeding.

It is really the simply corn of the summer time canned up for winter use and it plays about the same part in the health of the animal fed, as canned goods does to the human family.

Silage, in numerous experiments, has cut down the production of beef, $2.00 per hundred. Not only does it do that, but it also advances the selling price about fifty-five to one hundred cents on the market.

Corn silage for feed cattle should not be put up too green, but rather should be left until about the time when the corn is put in the shock.

In his talk on pruning fruit trees, Mr. C. L. Clayton said that the pruning gave much larger, better colored fruit, often made tree bear and also made the tree live longer, and gives them the strength to bear heavier crops without breaking the branches. For the best results the tree should be trained from the beginning. In planting, the top should be cut severely and each winter for the next three years the tree should be pruned to give it an open spreading form. To do this best one year old apple trees should be used. This is cut back to a stub about thirty inches from the ground at the time of planting. The next winter the branches should be cut back to about fourteen inches leaving from three to five branches to form the main limbs of the future tree. These should be so chosen as to form no notches, and should be distributed up and down the trunk of the tree so they do not crowd later on. The next winter we cut back the side branches, cutting out those which are inclined to grow across the tree, those which cross and close together.

As the tree gets older less pruning is needed, or the energy goes into the fruit instead of wood. However, all trees should be pruned some each winter to keep them in shape.

In pruning old neglected trees the first thing to do is often to cut out one or more of the branches from the center of the tree and so open it up to the sun and air. Cut out all dead and diseased branches, also those which cross or are too close together. In old trees it is often necessary to cut out part of the top to get it low enough to spray and pick the fruit.

If the trees have been long neglected it is best to take two years for this work. Cutting out the dead and diseased wood, opening to the center, and cutting out the highest branches first, and later doing the general thinning. All cuts should be made slanting and close together.

"When the editor gets drunk it is a case of being overcome by the heat, and if he dies it is from heart trouble; when the editor gets drunk it's a case of too much booze, and if he dies it's the Jimjams. Any old college can make a doctor; an editor has to be born." Exchange.

It is even so as you read this—your Creator in the person of the Lord Jesus is before you to be worshipped, revered, adored if you have already received Him as your own personal Saviour; if not, then the one great and only question for you is to answer who is the one in verse 22 of our lesson, "What shall I do with Jesus who is called Christ?" It is never in any case a question of our standing before men, character or good works or even church membership, which may mean something or nothing, but only this: Am I in Christ, redeemed by His precious blood who bare my sins in His own body on the cross?

Pilate sitting on the judgment seat and Jesus standing before him, the chief priests and elders accuse Him of many things, such as perverting the nation, forbidding to give tribute to Caesar, proclaiming Himself King. To all these accusations Jesus answered never a word, and Pilate marvelled greatly (verses 12-14). Luke xxiii, 2, 3.

It is trying to be lied about and falsely accused either behind one's back or before your face, but to do as Jesus did and answer nothing when there is nothing to be answered is the better way.

Nothing can be said or done to any member of His body without His permission or without His feeling it, and all suffering with Him and for His sake is a very great privilege. Consider continually that He who bore all this so meekly was not only in reality King of the Jews, but also King of nations, ruler of the kings of the earth, King of kings and Lord of lords, and all kings shall fall down before Him, all nations serve Him (Deut. x, 17; Ps. lxxii, 11; Rev. i, 5; xv, 3; xvi, 14; xli, 16). Oh, the stupendous wonder of it all that He should descend to submit to all this for our sakes; then to think how little we are willing to bear for Him!

How Pilate sent Him to Herod to be further mocked and set at nought and how there also He answered nothing is recorded in Luke xxiii, 6-12. When He had been returned to Pilate he brought Him forth and said to the Jews, "Behold your King." But they cried out: "Away with Him, crucify Him. We have no king but Caesar" (John xix, 14, 15). Pilate's wife sent to him, saying: "Have thou nothing to do with that just man, for I have suffered many things this day in a dream because of Him." But the chief priests and elders prevailed, and when Pilate washed his hands, saying: "I am innocent of the blood of this just person," they all answered, "His blood be on us and on our children" (verses 19, 20, 24, 25).

SUNDAY SCHOOL.
Lesson VIII.—Fourth Quarter,
For Nov. 22, 1914.
THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.
Text of the Lesson, Matt. xxvii, 11-26.
Memory Verses, 22, 23—Golden Text,
Matt. xxvii, 22—Commentary Prepared
by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This chapter begins with the words,

"When the morning was come." What an eventful night it had been—the last passover, with all its incidents; the great discourse and prayer; the agony of Gethsemane; the betrayal and the arrest; the mockery of a trial before the chief priests and the council; with the buffeting and splitting; the denial of Peter with his oaths and curses.

Now they bind Him again and lead Him away to Pontius Pilate, the Roman governor, that He may be put to death. If the Jews had the power to kill Him He would have been stoned as Stephen afterward was, but the prediction in Ps. xlii, 16—"they pierced my hands and my feet"—indicated crucifixion, and every Scripture must be fulfilled.

The record in John xviii, 28, to xix, 14, seems to come in before our lesson verses telling of Pilate's private interview with Jesus and how he came out again and again and said, "I find no fault in Him."

How when he asked what prisoner he should release unto them, as was his custom at this feast, they asked for Barabbas, who was a robber and murderer. How Pilate had Jesus scourged, and the soldiers made a crown of thorns and put it on Him and mocked Him and smote Him. How Pilate brought Him forth wearing the crown of thorns and the purple robe and said, "Behold the Man!" And they all cried out, "Crucify Him, crucify Him!" and said, "By our law He ought to die because He made Himself the Son of God!"

When Jesus made no reply to Pilate's question, "Whence art Thou?" and asked if He did not know that he had power to crucify or release Him, Jesus said that Pilate could have no power against Him except it were given him from above. As Pilate persisted in his efforts to release Him the Jews said, "If thou let this man go then go not art Caesar's friend." Then Pilate brought Jesus forth and sat down in the judgment seat, and Jesus stood before him, the Creator before one of His creatures.

It is even so as you read this—your Creator in the person of the Lord Jesus is before you to be worshipped, revered, adored if you have already received Him as your own personal Saviour; if not, then the one great and only question for you is to answer who is the one in verse 22 of our lesson,

"What shall I do with Jesus who is called Christ?" It is never in any case a question of our standing before men, character or good works or even church membership, which may mean something or nothing, but only this:

SUDDEN DEATHS IN A SILO.

A recent fatal accident in Ohio calls attention to a danger to farmers which cannot be too widely circulated. Since 1875, when the first American silo was built by Dr. Manley Miles, this method of preserving forage for livestock has been generally adopted. Although the Department of Agriculture has frequently called attention to the danger of carbon dioxide gas accumulating in silos under certain conditions, no fatalities have been reported heretofore. On the morning of September 19, four workmen on the farm of the Athens (Ohio) State Hospital, ascended the ladder on the outside of a silo to an open door about twelve feet from the top and jumped down one after another onto the silage, the top of which was about six feet below the door. About five minutes after, two other workmen following them found them unconscious. Although a large force of workmen were immediately summoned and the bodies of the four men removed at once through a lower door, the physicians of the hospital who were at once on the ground were unable to resuscitate any of the four men. Evidently the carbon dioxide gas had accumulated during the night, filling the silo up to the level of the door and forming a layer of carbon dioxide gas six feet deep. Such accidents says The Journal of the American Medical Association, might easily be repeated on any modern farm. Agriculture journals should call the attention of the farmers to this danger and should urge that silos be carefully ventilated before being entered.

GREAT CROPS

AND HIGH PRICES.

It is with great satisfaction that we note that the crops of the United States for the year 1914 are estimated to have the greatest money value that has ever been recorded for any year during our entire history.

We call the question to all our readers of this, for it is the creator of activity in trade, of prosperity in business in its various branches.

The most important of our crops in the aggregate are estimated at a total value of more than $100,000,000 over the values of the same crops in 1913.

These estimates do not include receipts of the agriculturists from sales of cattle, horses, sheep, hogs, poultry, dairy products or other sources of revenue which are known to be yielding far greater returns this year than in former periods.

The United States has hundreds of millions of dollars' worth more of farm productions to dispose of this year than it had last year or any other past year.

The United States has a greater demand for these products than it ever had.

It has a larger home demand: it has a larger foreign demand.

The United States also has the largest supply of currency in circulation it ever has had, and under the new banking system it will be able to add largely to that supply.

Given great crops, high prices, high demands and ample supply of currency assured to our people, it is a combination that cannot fail to bring the very best of times to the people of the republic.

It is the hour for preparation by our business men for extending and expanding volumes of business, for the pushing of soundly based enterprises, for an era of very active and profitable business throughout the Union.
